

Factory Team Agreement:

Adrenaline is selective in its team sponsorships; it holds both players and teams to the highest degree of responsibility for their actions. Members of the Adrenaline community have promoted the sport and the company in the most positive light. We look forward to building positive relationships within a Team Sponsorship setting. Members should be aware that they represent all the current Adrenaline Teams, its management and owners, its members, and all the previous players that have gone before. Adrenaline has had national Championship Team, even international championship teams. These players still frequent the field, watch and root for our current teams as they compete in events. These players and this history must be respected.

Paint Pooling

The purpose of pooling paint is to make the cost of practice fair. Back players should shoot double what a front or snake player may shoot. | Everyone should be encouraged to practice the full practice. Back players would only practice ½ as much as other players without pooling. Back players may be conservative during competitive play.

Paint will be pooled at events. Pooling, means that the cost is divided evenly between all players, no matter how many points are played or which position is played. Leftover paint will be used at the next official practice. The team captain may adjust the paint pool cost if a player is an affiliate or guest that is not playing in the regular rotations.

Paint maybe pooled at Official practices; this is voluntary, it is also “fair”. If paint is pooled at practice a list of players in the pool must be handed into registration at the start of practice. All players pay the same even if one leaves early. Do not leave Marg hanging to figure out your paint pool. Tell her who is responsible for the pool. It is not her.

Team pool benefits = Min 10 cases for 5players = $600 admission and Tx in. One person pays the bill. We don't accept credit cards for this price point. Bring Cash.

Accepting team pricing commits you to agreeing to this Team agreement.
